Position Description:

The Associate Product Manager is responsible for building out SNL's insurance product. S/he will be a leader in the design and execution of tools, templates and analysis while working in tandem with clients, prospects and industry experts. S/he will be tasked with seeking out, where needed, third party data to supplement the existing insurance data sets, products and services. Primary responsibilities include providing high-level analytical expertise to SNL's clients and internal Sales and Project Development teams; increasing market penetration through on-site visits with clients and prospects; influencing product development by providing feedback to business managers on use demand, market practices, and product enhancements; and discussing Insurance valuations, capital adequacy, idea generation tools and portfolio analysis with industry professionals such as analysts, actuaries and portfolio managers.
